International Teachers

PRINCIPAL: KEN JARMAN

Pailan World School

Once again, Pailan world School has shown the way forward in education.

In October, four teachers from the renowned Griffith University are coming to the school for a month to teach alongside our secondary teachers. Working in the fields of History, Geography, Biology and Mathematics, the visitors will take classes alongside our teachers and also take classes on their own.

This can only benefit our students. The school's key objective is the development of academic performance and the addition of four international teachers into the classrooms can only provide the best of support for our students and staff.

In November, an even more exciting event will take place. This time, fifteen teachers from the world famous University of New England will come to our Junior School to work alongside our teachers for a month.

You can imagine the leap forward that will take place at that time. Our international teachers will take their places alongside our teachers and work hand in hand to guide the students. In some classes there will be two international teachers working alongside the class teacher.

With that many personnel guiding the children, every child in the Junior School is certain to improve his/her performance in every area. We look to our Junior School to show the way in academic improvement and expect many stars to emerge from this intense program.

Of course there will be another benefit as well. The International teachers will bring in fresh ideas for our teachers to follow, while our international visitors will take away with them the rich traditions and culture of India which they will see in our school every day.
